

Abstract of the Disclosure

Disclosed is a video recording/reproducing apparatus and recording media registration information display method. The video recording/reproducing apparatus
5 has a main control part that, if a signal requesting a display of a registration information guide screen for a recording media on reproduction through an interface from an external input device is received, processes the recording media registration information guide screen to be displayed on a display device, makes semitransparent an area displaying recording media registration information corresponding to the items
10 classified on the registration information guide screen so that the semitransparent area is overlapped and displayed with images on reproduction, and, if a selection signal for a classified item is received, makes opaque the area displaying the recording media registration information corresponding to the selected item, so that the images are not seen. Therefore, registration information on a recording media on reproduction is 15 processed for display in a set display format according to the classified items, emphasis displays are available for a selected item of the classified items, and images from the recording media on reproduction can be checked during the display of registration information on the recording media on reproduction, so that the user's convenience can be enhanced.